BRILLIANT MAN HELD AUDIENCE

Spellbound for an Hour While he Spoke to Men
Sunday

SESSION FOR YOUNG MEN

Given by Dr. Edwin H. Hughes was Highly Appreciated by all Present

The Men's Big Meeting at the Presbyterian church Sunday afternoon was one of the most enthusiastic meetings of the series.

Wagoner's orchestra rendered some excellent selections of music. The Wi-Hub quartette sang a beautiful song. The large audience was also favored with a duet by Miss Ida Spurrier and B. F. Miller, which was greatly enjoyed. The speaker was introduced by Prof. J. H. Scholl.

When President Hughes stepped before the audience those who had not had a previous acquaintance with him little realized the richness of the cultivated mind in the little man's body that stood before them. The paradox of greatness in an unassuming exterior is something the average American mind has to wrestle with a good deal before it can master the situation.

The disappointment, however, did not last long; for, following a short introduction of his address, President Hughes began talking in his own quiet manner, of things that lie next the heart of every true man. He spoke out of a rich experience from which he drew many illustrations and as he neared the close of his address, or sermon at he chose to call it, it seemed as though he called upon the platform poets and philosophers of two great nations to bear witness to the truths he desired to leave with his audience.

Three great words bore the burden of his address: "Honor, Father, Mother."

"Honor thy father and thy mother that thy days may be long in the land which the Lord thy God giveth thee." To those in this audience who are away from parents the law of restraint becomes a law of liberty. The law of restraint has been changed to a blessed privilege of giving honor to those two whom God has singled out from all the inhabitants of the earth as being worthy of honor. There is no height to which a man may rise that he may not honor that man and that woman who toiled for him that he might attain to eminence. Some men would give a good deal if they now had the chance to honor their parents. I said the speaker, would like to be a boy again that I might be a better son.

"Backward turn backward, O, time in your flight, make me a child again just for tonight," is not the cry of the child, but it is the mother-sick cry of maturity. In the name of God, men, honor father and mother while you can.

"To the law of restraint and the law of liberty is added the law of promise: 'that thy days may be long in the land which the Lord, thy God giveth thee.' A great deal is being said about the anarchists of Chicago. This nation has not one-tenth to fear from the open avowed anarchist that it has to fear from the child who thinks he knows more than father or mother. The anarchy of the home is the anarchy that will destroy this nation. Rebellion in the home will undermine the very foundation on which our institutions rest, for they rest on the American home. I have buried scores of young men, as these other ministers here on the platform have done, who died before their thirty-fifth year for no other reason than because they disobeyed the commandment given in the 12th verse of the 20th chapter of Exodus.

"But," says some one in this audience, "suppose father and mother are not worthy of honor?" If this be true, then I can do nothing for you. If father and mother have lived ignoble lives so that there is nothing to be found in them worthy of honor, then I can only say, God pity you! God I can only say. God pity you! But be careful, young man, before you arrive at such a conclusion. Remember, that at seventeen, eighteen, twenty or twenty-five there are still a few things you do not know. Allow a little margin for parental mistakes. I know at least one man—the father of my own five children, down yonder at Greencastle—who makes mistakes.

"I know, young man, that you have had great opportunities, but experience counts for something. The man who has lived fifty or sixty years in this world has something that will be of value to you if you will give heed. I meet men and women all over this State who have children at my school, and when they ask me, as each and everyone is sure to do, 'how is my boy or my girl getting along, I know that any good word that I can say will be remembered and cherished and fed upon by the fond parent for days and months and even years to come.

"Has your life been a success? I once asked of an old gentleman in Iowa. 'I don't know,' said he, 'I am getting gray now and I can't see very good and my step is not very steady, but I shall have to wait and see how my boy turns out before I shall know whether my life has been a success.'

After I heard this old gentleman speak I wanted to go to the institute at Chicago where my own boy was in school and say 'My boy, my boy, you carry in yourself the success or failure of your father and mother.'

"At another time it devolved upon me to go to a mother and tell her of the downfall and imprisonment of her only son, and I shall never forget her face and those eyes when she looked at me with the expression of a wounded deer and said, 'I'm so sadly disappointed—a woman's way of telling that her heart was broken.'

Mr. Hughes gave a short selection from Bobby Burns' "Cotter's Saturday Night," recited Vandyke's poem entitled "A Prayer for Mother's Birthday," and Kipling's impassioned lines on "A Mother's Prayer," held up before the audience a word picture of the Christ as he commended his mother to John, the beloved disciple, and his mother to John, closing with a parable of the young oak that strikes its roots deep into the earth until grappling with the very granite hills, it rises higher and higher, thrusting its branches upward among the branches of the parent tree it becomes a support of the old tree when companion trees of the forest have fallen in the terrible storms of the years.

LADIES WILL GO TO INDIANAPOLIS

Members of the May Donnan
Literary Class will be Entertained in Capitol City

The next meeting of the May Donnan literary class will be held at her home in Indianapolis. At the close of last season's work, the class entertained in honor of their talented teacher, who is one of the literary lights of Indiana and this season she insists on returning the favor. The members of the class will go to the Capitol City one week from next Saturday to be Mrs. Donnan's guests.

BROTHER OF PREACHER OWNS RACE HORSE HERE

I. O. Britton, of Mt. Zion, Ill., has shipped his good pacer, Warren A., 2:14½, record made over one-half mile track to Harrie Jones, of this city to be trained and raced in 1908. Mr. Britton is a brother of the late Rev. George Britton, who was pastor of the First Presbyterian church of this city about twenty-five years ago.

TRAMP DOG THAT LIVES ON THE TRANSFER LINES

The old tramp dog which "claims" for his home the various drays around town and who will be found first with one and then another, has been given a spring haircut and now looks like a ferocious lion.

"WEARIN' AV THE GREEN"

A bit av tune to me ear is b'ought
By a passing, vagrant breeze,
A bar from a tune me ears once knew
In a land across the seas.
It's the dear old "Wearin' av the Green,"
And it bears me far away;
In mind and heart I'm in Erin's isle,
And it's morn St. Patrick's day.

St. Patrick's day in the morning there
—'Twas many a year ago—
I traveled a road to Donaghmore
With a girl I used to know,
And she had a ribbon in her hair
As green as the emerald sod,
And we tramped that way as gay a pair
As ever the dear soil trod.

When old the day, in the deepening dusk,
Once again we came that way.
The path we trod was a glory road,
E'en though the dark shadows lay
Athwart the path, for love shone bright
As stars in the blue o'erhead
We whispered o'er, as we tripped along
The words that the priest had said.

St. Patrick's day, and I'm far away
From the isle av emerald shen.
And many a year a dear grave there
Has been wearing av the green.
Ah, 'tis here am I in freedom's land—
Please God I'm here to stay—
But me heart and soul go home each year
For to spend St. Patrick's day.

CARS NOW RUN INTO TERMINAL BROTHERS HAVE A STREET FIGHT

Viaduct has Been Repaired Ora Clevenger Strikes Older and I. & C. Began Continuing Run Saturday Brother with a Board, Laying him Low

DEAD WEIGHT REMOVED WERE MOVING A BARN

Between 900 and 1000 Tons When the "Barn War Dance"
Taken Away From the Old was Inaugurated and Brother
Virginia Avenue Viaduct Mart Came out Second Best

Beginning Saturday night the Indianapolis & Cincinnati traction company resumed their continued service to the terminal station in Indianapolis, doing away with the transfer at the city limits, which was made necessary a few months since by reason of the city engineer declaring the Virginia avenue viaduct unsafe for the heavy I. & C. cars.

Several days ago the Indianapolis, Columbus & Southern Traction company began to send its big cars over the viaduct, but it was thought then that the Indianapolis & Cincinnati might not use the bridge until the completion of repairs, because its cars are many tons heavier than the I. O. & S. cars. The bridge is entirely safe, the engineer says, because probably 900 or 1000 tons of dead weight have been taken off it by the removal of the concrete sidewalk structures and the roadway of the west side of the bridge.

This change was responsible for quite a deal of annoyance to the traction company, especially in the freight and express department.

PHIL OSTER WILL MAKE HIS HOME IN DENVER

Philip Oster, the veteran German cobbler and restaurant keeper, who recently moved to Denver, Colo., writes the Republican that there is no place like the West and that he intends to spend the remainder of his days out there.

LADIES ARE PULLING FOR A LARGE CROWD

The ladies of the first division of St. Paul's M. E. church are sparing no effort to have one of the most brilliant crowds of the season in attendance at the concert to be given by the talented DePauw University Glee club on the evening of March 25th. In addition to a number of high class singers, a clever reader and several soloists will appear on the program.

—P. J. Flanady, who is employed in this city, spent Sunday with his family in Indianapolis.

FELL DOWN STAIRWAY PAINFULLY INJURED

Jesse Reddick, was Seized with Vertigo and Received a Number of Bruises

Jesse Reddick was seized with an attack of vertigo Sunday morning and fell down the stairway between Flinn's grocery and Barrett's saloon in Second street. When he reached the bottom of the stairs he had received many bruises, the most painful one was to his right hand, badly lacerating and dislocating his thumb.

Dr. Wooden was called and dressed the injuries, and Mr. Reddick was taken to the Grand hotel where he is now confined to his bed.

DR. HUGHES SPOKE IN HIGH SCHOOL

President of De Pauw University
Made Brief Address which was Appreciated

Dr. E. H. Hughes, president of DePauw University, who addressed the Men's Big Meeting yesterday, spoke to the high school students this morning and it was pronounced a rare treat and much appreciated by the pupils and faculty. The trend of Dr. Hughes' remarks was the monetary value of an education to the young man.

CLOSED A SERIES OF GOOD MEETINGS

Southern Evangelist Preached
Three Strong Sermons at the Close

Rev. Wm. M. S. McCutcheon finished a series of meetings at the Second Baptist church last evening. During his stay all have been benefited by his teachings and good sermons. He discussed three beautiful sermons Sunday, "Faith, Hope and Charity," "Dry Bones in the Valley," and "God's Mercy to Man; or He Crowneth the Year with His Goodness."

Rev. Wm. McCutcheon will leave tomorrow accompanied by his wife to their home in Nashville, Tenn. The members and pastor of the Baptist church were highly pleased with the Southern evangelist's work.

MISS EDITH HINER IS "GOING SOME" ALREADY

Miss Edith Hiner, of this city, is one of three girls in Indiana, who have over fourteen thousand votes in the Indianapolis newspaper contest in which the winner will receive a free trip to Europe. There are several hundred contesting for the coveted trip.

WILSON IS PRAISED BY KOKOMO NEWSPAPERS

Prof. J. Walter Wilson, formerly of the Vaudeville theatre here is conducting the singing at a great revival in Kokomo and the Tribune of that city says of him in part: "Prof. J. Walter Wilson, of Indianapolis, took charge of the large chorus and showed himself a master of assemblies in his skill both in leading the chorus and persuading the audience to sing. With a rich deep bass voice Mr. Wilson sang a solo in a most impressive way."

CONCEDES BIG LEAD TO WATSON

PREDICTS EARLY VICTORY

Gowdy Says Watson has a More
Than Selfish Boy's Hall of all the Delegates Selected

Capt. John K. Gowdy, of Rushville, who has charge of Congressman James E. Watson's interests in the race for Republican nomination for Governor, says today's Indianapolis Star, stated yesterday that the returns received by him give Mr. Watson 576 of the 1026 delegates elected to the State convention.

He declared his information comes from reliable sources and the progress Mr. Watson is making warrants the prediction that he will receive the nomination very early in the convention.

"We are not attempting to be specific as to what Mr. Watson's opponents may claim," said Capt. Gowdy, "but we do know to a certainty that he has 300 votes more than his nearest competitor and that he is winning a majority of the delegates in county after county in spite of combinations that are being made against him."

Capt. Gowdy said that during the last week out of the 198 elected in neutral territory, where there are no candidates for Governor, 126 are favorable to Mr. Watson. Of the 241 delegates elected last week forty came from Charles W. Miller's home district and three from Hugh T. Miller's district.

Capt. Gowdy today pointed out that there are 273 more delegates to be elected in neutral territory that is conceded to be very friendly to Mr. Watson. He declared that it is reasonable to predict that on the showing Mr. Watson has made in other parts of the State he will do equally as well in the counties that are yet to name delegates.

Capt. Gowdy also called attention to the fact that a majority of the delegates in the labor centers of Green, Parke, Allen, Vigo, Madison, Delaware and other counties have been elected in favor of Mr. Watson.

A LOGICAL TIME TO BUILD HOUSES

Individual Owning Vacant Lots
have a Mighty Poor Investment in Rushville

Now that property owners will have to pay for the sewers, and in addition pay city tax and for sidewalk improvements, it behooves every person who owns a vacant lot to build on it this spring, otherwise it is a mighty poor investment. Lumber and building material is very cheap and labor is not at the premium it has been for several years, so no better time could be found to build and improve property. And it must be remembered too, that rental houses are always in demand here.

CECIL CLARK RETURNS FROM STAY IN NEW YORK

Cecil Clark, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Clark, of North Main Street, returned Saturday from a several months' stay in the East. Since leaving here he has worked with a surveying gang in New York State in a number of counties.

CHINA CONCEDES

Japanese Pressure In the Tatsu Affair Became Too Strong.

WILL REPLACE JAP FLAG

While the Emblem of the Sun Is Being Hoisted on Captured Vessel Salute Will Be Fired.

In Addition to This Amende She Will Purchase Guns Taken on the Tatsu.

Tokio, March 16.—A satisfactory settlement of the Tatsu Maru affair was announced this afternoon. China has conceded all the Japanese demands. She will purchase the arms and ammunition on board the Tatsu Maru and will hoist the Japanese flag over the vessel. While the flag is being rehoisted a Chinese warship will fire a salute.

There is a general feeling of relief in consequence of the settlement of the question.

Did This Hasten Settlement?

Washington, March 16.—The Japanese embassy here is without advices from the home government regarding the reported sailing from Formosa Saturday of the first Japanese naval squadron on secret service. While Baron Takahira, the Japanese ambassador, disclaimed any knowledge concerning the reported naval movement, he said that it had no bearing on the Tatsu Maru incident. The ambassador called attention to the published accounts of the planned maneuvers of the Japanese first naval squadron which appeared two months ago. He indicated that no political significance attaches to the present movement of the ships.

The Chinese Aroused.

Hong Kong, March 16.—At a meeting in Canton over the Tatsu Maru matter last night indignation was shown to be very strong, and if diplomacy fails a boycott will be organized soon. During the excitement the viceroy of Canton resigned rather than release the vessel. The resignation was accepted.

AVERTED PANIC

Cool Heads in Stampeded Theater Crowd Prevent Disaster.

Holyoke, Mass., March 16.—A fire panic was narrowly averted Sunday afternoon at the Holyoke opera house, where 1,500 men, women and children were witnessing a moving picture show. Suddenly a shout of fire rang through the house and flames and smoke could be seen coming from the wall at the rear of the second balcony. A rush was made for the door and soon hundreds of people from the balconies were pushing and shoving to force their way through and down the stairs to the street. The theater lights were turned on promptly and the alarm signal sounded, while J. O'Connell, the manager, addressed the audience, announcing that the fire was not serious. Firemen also assisted in enforcing order, with the result that in three and a quarter minutes the house was entirely emptied and no one had been seriously injured.

The fire, which started in a smoking room, was put out after slight damage had been done.

Seeking Bodies of Victims.

Natchez, Miss., March 16.—Sunday was one of ceaseless activity of the forces engaged in searching the ruins of the Natchez Drug company's five-story building, which was wrecked Saturday by an explosion of gas, causing the death of eight persons, and at nightfall the remains of two of the victims had been recovered, that of Cleveland Laub, the chemist in charge of the laboratory, and Inez Netterville, one of the young women employed in that department. The search of the debris will be continued until all of the bodies are recovered.

Lone Bandit Robs Train.

Butte, Mont., March 16.—Great Northern officials have been notified that the Oriental Limited, the fast overland train on the Great Northern system, was held up near Bonners Ferry, Idaho, early Sunday, by a lone highwayman. Both mail clerks were bound and a considerable amount of mail matter rifled. No attempt was made to blow open the safe, according to the information received here. No estimate is obtainable here as to the probable loss, but it is not believed to be heavy. The bandit escaped.

Despondent Over Losses.

Laporte, Ind., March 16.—Despondent over financial troubles, Emerson Posten, aged forty-two years, kissed his fiancée, Miss Helen Crane, and, before she could wrest a revolver from his grasp, fired a bullet into his brain. Posten had been engaged in the restaurant business at Westville. The venture was not a success, and he became involved in debt. He was given $150 with which to settle the obligations he had incurred. He squandered the money in dissipation. Suicide followed.

an enthusiast over the United States. He visited America for the Victorian government in the 80's to inspect its irrigation works, and he has never forgotten the country or its greatness. Hence the American fleet will surely have a lavish welcome in Australian waters. The Australian people are notably hospitable and they will outdo themselves in entertaining the American officers and sailors.

No Longer Play for Jackies.

San Diego, Cal., March 16.—The American battleship fleet now at anchor at Magdalena Bay, Lower California, began the serious work of record target practice this morning, according to official wireless dispatches received here, and for the next two or three weeks the usually quiet waters of that harbor will splash and dance under the rain of shot and shell.

THOSE SCRAPPY GERMANS

Their Schoolboys Cannot Get Along Without the Duel.

Lissa, Posen, March 16.—Fifteen minutes' slashing with a cane was the limit of endurance of one of the antagonists in the newest form of students' duel which has just occurred outside this city, where it has been decided among the students of the technical high school to dispense in the future with the deadly weapons for the decision of affairs of honor.

The students met at a chosen spot where the seconds marked out a ring. The antagonists then stripped to the waist, each was handed a cane of equal length, and they then stepped into the ring. At the word of command of the director of the combat they began slashing furiously until finally, after a quarter of an hour, one of them overstepped the limits of the ring. He was thereupon declared to be the loser, but to the onlookers it was difficult to decide which of the opponents had suffered most, as their ribs, arms and backs presented the appearance of having been flayed.

In university circles where duels with swords have hitherto been the only recognized custom for students' duels, opinion is greatly exercised over the attempted innovation.

FAULTFINDERS SCARCE

Pessimistic Views Regarding Big Canal Are Disappearing.

New York, March 16.—Marked progress in the construction of the Panama canal is being reported by Captain F. W. Kutz, U. S. A., instructor in engineering at West Point military academy, who has just returned after thirty days' inspection of the new waterway. Captain Kutz said:

"The work seems to me to be progressing wonderfully. During twenty-four days of last month 3,000,000 cubic yards of earth were removed. Everyone appears to be happy and content, and the faultfinder and forecaster of the future has disappeared. I believe the canal will be completed by July 1, 1915."

Wounds Regarded as Critical.

Evansville, Ind., March 16.—John Carter, aged twenty-two, a traveling man of Chattanooga, Tenn., and John Berry, aged thirty-five, a traveling man of Louisville, Ky., who were shot Saturday night at Dixon, Ky., by negroes in ambush, were brought here Sunday and placed in a hospital. Their condition is regarded as critical and they will probably die. Both men were shot in the back, and the bullets perforated their intestines.

Jealous Suitor's Bloody Deed.

San Pedro, Cal., March 16.—Gracio Elgueta, a lumber handler, last night shot and probably fatally wounded eleven-year-old Margaret Manes, wounded seven-year-old Minnie Shackelford twice, shot her grandfather, James Shackelford, through both shoulders, fired at Mrs. A. Manes, and was himself killed by policemen. Elgueta was a rejected suitor of Mrs. Manes and jealousy of her led to the shooting.

Another Haytian Outbreak.

London, March 16.—A dispatch has been received here from Port au Prince, Hayti, to the effect that serious disturbances have occurred at that place. Several persons are reported killed in the street fights and many arrests of prominent men have been made. Rumors of several summary executions, the dispatch says, are in circulation, but at the hour of filing the dispatch these had not been confirmed.

BRINGING RESULTS

Superintendent Cotton's Complaint of Robbery of School Funds Well Received.

NEED OF MORE PUBLICITY

People Should Be Informed of the Amount of Fines Paid Into the Treasury.

A General Call That the School Fund Should Get All That Is Coming to It.

Indianapolis, March 16.—Since he issued his last bulletin, dealing with the sources of school revenue and the common methods of robbing the school funds by remitting fines and leniency in assessing fines, Fasset A. Cotton, state superintendent of public instruction, has received letters from a number of citizens in the state discussing the same subject and asking that steps be taken to obtain all the money that is due the school fund each year.

One writer suggests that the justices' courts be investigated. Justices' courts which are a few miles out of cities need checking up, he declares. The prosecutor in each county, he contends, should call on these justices for reports. He suggests also that the papers over the state publish semi-annually the total amount of fines paid into the treasury during the period. This, he said, would enable the people of the different communities of the county to determine whether or not all fines have been paid in. It should be made the duty of the county treasurer to have these reports published, he declares. If the amount was too small from any particular township the people of that township would notice it.

The writer deprecates the usual method of getting the "costs" first and "allowing the fine to take care of itself." The first money received in suits, he declares should be applied to the payment of the fine, and the "costs" should come second. The writer suggests that if all the fines which are on the docket of mayors, circuit judges and justices of the peace, and are due the school fund and unpaid, should be paid, the interest would amount to $500 annually on this sum, and would mean this much of an annual perpetual increase for the tuition fund.

MIGRATION OF PEOPLE

Two Thousand Workingmen and Families Will Move to Kirk.

Hammond, Ind., March 16.—In a few weeks the 2,000 men employed by the Chicago & Eastern Illinois railway, a subsidiary corporation of the United States Steel company, will be compelled to remove to Kirk, the eastern suburb of Gary, where the new yards of the railroad company are located. These yards are now at South Chicago. This puts South Chicago to some embarrassment, as by this removal the city will be deprived of 2,000 workingmen, who support a population, including themselves, of practically 10,000 people.

It is a great opportunity for Gary, but unfortunately Gary is not now prepared to take advantage of it, and that city now has a vision of 10,000 people descending upon it, with accommodations for only a small proportion. The men to be employed at Kirk are switchmen, roundhouse men, car repairers and shop men. A hundred houses have been built to accommodate them, but only six or seven hundred people can thus be sheltered. The builders of the city are unable to figure out how they can accommodate the remainder, who will probably invade East Chicago, Indiana Harbor and Whiting.

The influx of population at Gary during the next year is likely to become a serious problem. Gary people are not building houses and the Gary Land company does not propose to assume the responsibility of building every dwelling.

He Has Nothing to Say.

Greensburg, Ind., March 16.—Edward Demaree, accused by his brother-in-law, Floyd Florea, of attempting to rob a store at Emporia, Ind., in September, 1905, and of shooting and severely wounding Walter Ellison, merchant, and who was at liberty on $1,500 bond after arrest growing out of the "holdup" of Benjamin Ortmann's general store at St. Maurice, this county, some time ago, has been surrendered by his bondsmen and committed to jail. Demaree refuses to discuss the Emporia affair.

Despondent Over Ill Health.

Winchester, Ind., March 16.—Mrs. Elizabeth Wilson of Indianapolis committed suicide here by drowning in a creek. She was visiting her son-in-law, Fred Britt and family, in this city. She has been sick all winter, and it is supposed she became despondent over ill health.

Burglarized Club Rooms.

Warsaw, Ind., March 16.—Eugene Sloan, a member of the local Elks, who entered a plea of guilty to stealing $132 when he burglarized the Elks' clubrooms, has been sentenced to Michigan City prison for an indefinite time, the maximum fourteen years.

NATURE'S WARNING.

Rushville People Must Recognize and Heed It.

Kidney ills come quickly mysterious-ly.

But nature always warns you. Notice the kidney secretions. See if the color is unhealthy—If there are settlements and sediment. Passages fr-e-q-u-e-n-t, scanty, painful. It's time to use Doan's Kidney Pills. To ward off Bright's disease or diabetes.

Doan's have done great in Rushville. Mrs. L. W. Smith, 319 E. Tenth street Rushville, Ind., says: "I feel very grateful to Doan's Kidney Pills for what they have done for our child. We had tried everything our best physician could do but nothing brought relief. Our child was delicate, suffered from backache, headaches and a most embarrassing urinary trouble. We felt we would give everything we had to receive a cure but everything seemed to fail. At last we read of Doan's Kidney Pills and my husband went to F. B. Johnson & Company's drug store and got them. I am happy to say that the trouble has ceased and I believe that this child is well. She is gaining strength and does not suffer pain as formerly. I am still living her Doan's Kidney Pills."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Looking Forward to Adjournment.

Washington, March 16.—From the best information now obtainable, it is not likely that the Aldrich bill will reach the final stages during the present week. The house will give its entire time after today to the appropriation bills. Today is being given up to the consideration of bills to which there is general assent under the suspension rule. Both houses are confidently counting on final adjournment in May.

Serious Clash Between Races.

New Orleans, March 16.—Another serious outbreak is reported in the lumber camps in Grant parish, where friction was recently brought about by negroes accepting a cut in wages, the whites standing out against the reduction. A number of persons are reported to have been shot.

All Now Forgiven.

Tokio, March 16.—The final reply from Washington regarding the immigration question has greatly pleased Japan.

Social Visit to his Legal Advisor

William Alsmann and family of Posey township, visited at Ben L. Smith's last Thursday, the 12th, and they report a splendid visit with his legal advisor. Mr. Alsmann holds the veteran attorney in the highest esteem and socially they are the best of friends.

In the fall of 1907 Mr. Smith and other friends rather took Mr. Alsmann and his wife by surprise one day, by driving up to the Alsmann beautiful country home, arriving there about dinner time. Mr. Smith partook of one of the best country dinners, and he said for once in his life his appetite was with him on that occasion. He and the other visitors greatly enjoyed the may good things that Mrs. Alsmann, a pastmaster in the culinary art, served at that dinner.

Mr. Alsmann, while in Rushville last Thursday, attended the Republican convention. They returned to their home late in the evening much pleased with their visit with Mr. Smith and his family and hope to enjoy many more such visits with his old friend and legal advisor, the genial Ben L. Smith. A FRIEND.

WOE FOR ARMY OFFICERS.

President Roosevelt's Plan For a Walking Test Alarms Heavyweights.

There is woe in the United States army circles as the result of President Roosevelt's plan to require a walking as well as a riding test to determine the fitness of officers to remain in active service.

The president is the young man's friend. He wants dash and go in the army. The prancing charger under steady curb and the dashing skirmisher appeal to him. When a man's waist line measures above normal it hurts Mr. Roosevelt.

In order to eliminate the fat man and substitute the youngsters as officers in the army of the United States the administration is now considering the advisability of adding a few more ordeals to the general plan. The latest is this march cross country, which the staff officers hear is to be a holiday jaunt in which vaulting walls, scrambling through barbed wire fences and sliding down the sides of ravines successfully are to be the certificates that will maintain them in the service, provided they live to report again at headquarters.

"It's very hard—very hard," mourned one of the warriors, who long has fought for his country behind a desk and weighs over 200 pounds. "I might be able to stick on a horse long enough to qualify and be resuscitated under good medical treatment, but this is too much. Why, it's all I can do to walk from the department to the Army and Navy club."

"And from the club home?" was suggested.

"That's a matter we will not discuss," he retorted with severity. "It has nothing to do with the case."

The view is generally shared by other staff officers. To some of them the fifteen mile ride test last fall was plenty. The ninety mile ride that the president has now planned, together with the new "hike" afoot, has struck terror to the souls of many.

POLITICAL

Call for Sixth District Convention.

Pursuant to an order of the Republican District Committee, you are invited to meet in delegate convention, in the city of Shelbyville, on April 9, for the purpose of nominating a candidate for representative from this district to the congress of the United States.

The convention will assemble at 10:30 a. m., for the purpose of organization and the transaction of all other business except the nomination of the candidate for congress.

The convention will reconvene at 1 o'clock and proceed with the election of a candidate for congress.

The convention shall be composed of 116 delegates, apportioned among the several counties of the district on a basis of one delegate for every 200 votes, and for each additional fraction of more than 100 votes cast for Fred A. Sims for secretary of state at the November election, 1906, the several counties being entitled to the following representation, viz.: Decatur, 13; Fayette, 10; Franklin, 7; Hancock, 11; Henry, 17; Rush, 13; Shelby, 16; Union, 5; Wayne, 24.

Necessary to choose, 56. Tickets to the convention will be distributed by the district chairman to the various county chairmen for their respective counties.

The county committees of the several counties wherein delegates have not been chosen, will apportion to the different townships of their respective counties the representation to which they are entitled, and make the necessary arrangements for the selection of delegates accordingly, giving notice at least two weeks by publication in the Republican press of their counties of the time and place of meetings for the selection of said delegates.

CASADAY HIGH LIFT GANG PLOW

Read the following letter

Rushville Ind., March 2d, 1908.

South Bend Chilled Plow Co.,
South Bend, Indiana.

Dear Sirs:—

I bought one of your New Casaday High Lift Gang Plows of your agent, E. A. Lee, Rushville, in the spring of 1907 and liked it so well I have placed my order for another plow this year.

I considered this plow has them all beat in lightness of draft, convenience in handling and the quality of work it does. The team is at ease by being in perfect line of draft.

Can recommend it to all who contemplate buying a gang plow.

RUSHVILLE, INDIANA, MARCH 16 1918

Since there are now unmistakable signs of the opening of spring, let every man move forward and Rushville will have another prosperous year.

A war cloud which has been overhanging the oriental sky for the past few weeks has finally disappeared. China, which seized a Japanese contraband ship, has conceded to all of Japan's demands for return of the vessel and payment of damages and everything is serene once more.

Housewives are already making arrangements for the spring housecleaning. However, it is not necessary for so many husbands in Rushville to resort to "a choice lot of words" when the stove pipes are to be taken down and carried out, as those of less favored towns, because of the fact this city is one of the few Indiana towns that still have plenty of natural gas.

Dr. Charles Good, who was nominated for Congress in the Eleventh district, last week on the 609th ballot, was a candidate six years ago when Fred Landis was nominated after a thousand ballots were taken. George B. Lockwood, the defeated candidate was a general favorite among the politicians in this State, and for this reason it was thought that he would win.

The present year will mark an epoch in the contention between the liquor interests and the anti-saloon sentiment which has an unusual impetus the past year. Heretofore the former paid but slight attention to the growing temperance sentiment, but now the brewers and distillers of the entire country have formed a gigantic organization, the intention of which, so it is claimed, is to show with arguments, based upon facts, borne out by figures, just what a terrible loss would result to the nation were prohibition to be put into effect. This attitude of the liquor interests is a pleasing sign of the times. It shows that a realization has been borne home that the old days of saloon dominance in politics and open flaunting of the law are no longer going to be tolerated by the people of any community. The efforts now of the liquor interests, which by the way, are very large ones in this country, and amounts to millions of dollars in investments, to conduct a campaign of education in order to justify its existence and right to do business, is rather belated. If it had good and valid arguments in its favor, it should have presented them sooner. And if it is the intention to eliminate from its ranks the bad, vicious and lawless element, it should have done so sooner. All over the country public sentiment is such that the saloons have not only been driven out of entire communities, but also out of entire States. This is being accomplished not by the Prohibitionists, but by the every day members of both the Republican and Democratic parties. In this State the Republican party will adopt a strong local option plank in its State platform, and a majority of the Democratic State chairmen are also in favor of a local option plank. In the event of both the leading parties adopting local option platforms, the liquor interests will have a hard fight on their hands, and they will have to wage a most vigorous "campaign of education" to hold their grounds.

CURRENT COMMENT

Helping the Helpless.

It is safe to predict that a response to the pleas of the unemployed, whose idleness has been forced upon them by business depression, will be very liberal. The wage-workers have helped to create what property there is in the country, and the American people are too fair minded, to say nothing of their proverbial generosity, to allow any honest workman or his family to live in want. And with the lesson of suffering, actual or threatened, because of idle hands it may be well to cast about for means to place the great mass beyond the need of periodical lifts.

Poverty traceable to idleness is working mischief in this country all the time, but it is not always in the limelight, as at present. The cities have a contingent of people whose excuse for idleness and for seeking aid from the public is that they have no work. Some of them wouldn't work if they had a chance, and many of them can do no any of the work which can be provided for them. It is difficult to tell which is the greater distress, that of the willing mechanic with no job or that of the equally willing man with jobs waiting on all sides and he not able to earn a dime a day at any one of them. The idle mechanic may at least hope for better times. For the other, times are as good as they will ever be.

It has been demonstrated with individuals and with multitudes that it is all but useless to transfer idle workers from the cities to the country. Whatever smattering of practical knowledge they may have, they are misfits on a farm. The whole atmosphere of the country is foreign to their temperament. Life in a farmhouse is only a punishment, and they are as uneasy as a Hottentot would be in a land where people live in houses and wear clothes. Even city children lack the kind of nerves that can make life tolerable for them and for their associates in the country. There remains colonizing as a scheme to benefit the idle of the cities. Some of them could make wages in factories, and perhaps a good percentage would learn outdoor work if they could keep their families with them. A colonizing system would give the children the country habit, and probably the second generation would grow up to be self supporting and to breed a race of mill and farm workers.

Hawaii's Defenses.

Hawaii is so obviously the key to the Pacific coast that its seizure might be the first news following a declaration of war. Evidently the president was well advised when he urged the early fortification of that point of vantage. His information is not the public's, but the facts speak for themselves. Hawaii could not be more fortunately situated as a base for a naval enemy of the United States. Operating from Hawaii a strong and watchful enemy could keep the army and navy of the United States busy without threatening other coasts of this country.

But having Hawaii adequately fortified for its destiny and a naval force to co-operate with the land defenses the United States might laugh at the attempt of any power, except possibly England, to attack us on the Pacific coast. Oriental fleets could not make the round trip across the Pacific without recoiling, and European fleets, with the single exception of that of England, have no nearby bases, while the countries south of us have no ships. In our own hands Hawaii can be made a mighty weapon for defense. In other hands it could be used with terrible effect against us. That is the situation in a nutshell.

Those who mourn over the alleged dying out of the good old American stock may take comfort from the record of war widow Barnum, who died recently, leaving fourteen great-grandchildren and a total of thirty-four descendants, representing three generations. Widow Barnum belonged to an old colonial family, which took an active part in the Revolution. Her husband served in the war of 1812.

A HOMESICK PIONEER.

Poetic Plaint of One of the Early Settlers in Missouri.

In wonder the people of today read of the persistent cheerfulness with which the pioneers went about the business of settling the great west. Nevertheless it somehow gratifies the weakness of human nature to know that there was now and then a wearer of the deerskin leggings and coonskin cap who grumbled.

One early settler who went from a snug New England village to the fever haunted prairies along the Missouri was moved to put his complaints into rhymes, one of which has survived and is now carefully preserved by the descendants of the early settler, who live surrounded by the peaceful prosperity and comfort of a Missouri farm right in the heart of the anathematized prairie.

Oh, lonesome, windy, grassy place,
Where buffalo and snake prevail—
The first with dreadful looking face,
The last with dreadful sounding tail—
I'd rather live on camel hump
Than be a Yankee Doodle beggar
And where I never see a stump
And shake to death with fever'n ager.
Judging from the last line, one might conclude that an acute attack of "ager" had suddenly prevented him from continuing.

Pie in England.

Pie came to the fore in England many centuries ago. It originated in the form of mince pie and was used in the celebration of Christmas. In its primitive stage it was baked in a deep sided dish, lined and covered with rolled out dough. The filling was of forcemeats, richly sweetened and spiced. This spicing and flavoring stood for the presents which the wise men bore to the Christ in the manger. For years and years this custom of having the Christmas mince pie prevailed, but finally it was denounced far and wide by the Puritans as a form of idolatry, and the government after parliament had suppressed the celebration of the birth of Christ took steps to stop the baking and eating of the mince pie. Eventually saner reasoning led to the taking off of the ban, and the pie eating custom was renewed.—London Standard.

AN ELECTION PRIMER

Pertinent Points About Our Election Machinery For New Voters and Old

THE DEMOCRATIC PARTY.

When did the Democratic party first appear in national politics? Under its present name the party first appeared in 1828, when Andrew Jackson was elected president as the party candidate. The Democratic party, however, so far as its chief principles go, dates from the beginning of the republic.

Who is regarded as the party's founder?

Thomas Jefferson. When the constitution of the United States was under discussion in convention the opposing theories of Thomas Jefferson and Alexander Hamilton constituted the principal difference of opinion. Jefferson and his adherents leaned far toward local self government, while Hamilton and his faction stood for a strong centralized government. In after years the Jeffersonian theories became crystallized into what was called at first the Republican party, later the Republican-Democratic party and finally the Democratic party.

The present Republican party, then, is entirely distinct from the one of Jefferson's time?

Entirely so. It is descended, through the Whig party, from the Hamiltonian or Federalist party, which took the opposite view to that of Jefferson.

What presidents has the Democracy elected?

Thomas Jefferson twice, James Madison twice, James Monroe twice, John Quincy Adams, Andrew Jackson twice, Martin Van Buren, James K. Polk, Franklin Pierce, James Buchanan, Grover Cleveland twice.

What is the Democratic party's position as to tariff?

It stands for a low tariff or a tariff for revenue only.

JAKE BUTTS MAY EVERYBODY IS FOR FRANK J. HALL

Interurban Conductor Says

he Rode as far as Indianapolis with him

DREW OUT ALL HIS MONEY

Saying he was Going to Leave this Country—Has Half Brother and Sister in Missouri

Luther Butts has returned from a trip to Richmond, where he went to assist in the search for his brother, Jake Butts, who mysteriously disappeared from that city about two weeks ago.

It was said that the last person who saw the missing man was a friend, who saw him standing gazing down into the river on the bridge west of Richmond. As Butts had been suffering from a severe attack of grip and was delirious at times, and it was thought by those interested that he committed suicide.

Another man reports seeing Butts which may throw some light on the case and clear up the mysterious disappearance. He is a conductor on the traction line which runs into Indianapolis from Richmond, and he is well acquainted with Butts. He says that he saw him and talked to him on the day he was thought to have committed suicide. After drawing his money out of a savings institution in Richmond—some three hundred dollars—he says Butts got on his car and told him he was going to leave this part of the country. He rode as far as Indianapolis with him.

Luther Butts says he is satisfied that his brother is alive and well and he is of the opinion that he has gone to Missouri, where he has several half sisters and brothers living. Letters have been written to the relatives in the West.

EARLIEST TRACK NORTH OF MEMPHIS

Riverside Park Offers Great Advantage for Early Training—Many Stabled There

Riverside Park of this city has the earliest mile track north of Memphis, Tenn. Last Friday the mile track at this place was harrowed and put in shape for the many horses that are in training for 1918.

This morning the different horsemen at this track were quite busy jogging over the track. This is a great advantage to which trainers who work over this track should appreciate as they should be able to get their horses ready very early. There are about 50 head in training now, and there will be about 125 by the middle of April.

Everything Points to his Success of Being Second Man on Democrat State Ticket

It begins to appear that the handwriting on the wall says "Frank J. Hall, nominee for lieutenant Governor on the Democrat ticket," and we in Rush county will be proud to see his name there.

Today's Indianapolis Star says: "Many of Ralston's friends are supporting Hall and they assert that the Rush county man stands a good show of winning his race. Judge Hall, as he is known in Rushville and throughout the Sixth District, and has been active in both State and national Democratic politics for many years. He twice helped nominate William Jennings Bryan for the presidency, having thice been a delegate to Democratic national conventions, and at one time voting for Grover Cleveland. He has served both as mayor and city clerk in Rushville and as Democratic chairman of Rush county. His candidacy has been indorsed by every county in the Sixth District."

JUDGE COMMENDS THE CITY MARSHAL

Say he Appreciates that Much was Accomplished by the Clever Officer

While in this city Sunday, Judge Sparks made it a point to see City Marshal Price and personally congratulate him upon the able and efficient manner in which he conducted the investigation of the recent murder. The judge said that he knew many of the more important matters would not have been brought to the surface if it had not been for the tireless efforts of the officer. The first damaging bits of evidence were unearthed by the city marshal and when confronted with some of these things, murderer Bundrant was prevailed upon to make a clean breast of the affair.

OLD DOCUMENT HAS BEEN FOUND

In Effects of Late Robert Cox Written for the Ananias Club

ARTICLE WELL WRITTEN

Written as a Joke Preferring Charges Against one of the Members

Among the effects of the late Robert Cox was found the following document, which he prepared shortly after the Ananias club was organized in this city.

To the Most Puissant Grand High Ananias, Associate Satanic Divinities and Common Liars of the Rushville Ananias Club:

Your committee to whom as referred the case of Bro. John W. Davis, respectfully report that we have investigated the same and in accordance with instructions from the club present the following specifications and charges together with such recommendations as your committee deem applicable to the case.

Specification 1. That the said Bro. John W. Davis did on or about the first day of January, 1902, with malice aforethought and with premeditation refuse an invitation to attend a meeting of the club, assigning a reason for such refusal that he had to work. Thus violating two points of his obligations as a member of this club. First, "that I will not do any work under any circumstances, unless it be to save myself from a burning building, and not then unless all chances of escape seem hopelessly cut off." Second, "that I will not mention the word work in any conversation with a member and will ever use the word except as a gag to deceive the public."

Specification 2. That the said John W. Davis has upon several occasions told the members of the club "that he often ate from 12 to 15 large sized apples after supper," and "that he commonly eat from 8 to 11 biscuits at breakfast," intending by said stories to convey the idea that they were lies made from whole cloth, but which your committee have found to be true statements and obvious violation of his obligation, "To never tell the truth when a lie will answer the purpose."

Specification 3. In agreeing with Bro. David Conner, "that maple syrup should be used on fried country sausage to give it the rich and rare taste of butchershop sausage," intending thereby to induce the members to give up "variety" sausage and substitute plain pork sausage in its stead, to the evident harm and discomfort of the members of this club, thus promoting discord where harmony should prevail.

Your committee might continue these charges and specifications indefinitely, but deem the foregoing sufficient. In lieu of the fact that Bro. Davis is both by nature and long service as city councilman qualified to occupy any official position in this club, your committee would recommend that Bro. Davis be reprimanded by the Most High Ananias, that for three days thereafter he shall be compelled, if possible, to tell the truth on all occasions until he shall become disgusted with the truth, that he will sigh for the comfort of a lie well told with as ardent a desire as did Alexander for more worlds to conquer.

MANY FAIL TO TAKE THEIR EXEMPTION

Wrong Idea Prevails Regarding Provisions of the Mortgage Exemption Law

More people are expected to take advantage of the mortgage exemption law in this county this year than have been known to do so since the law went into effect. County Auditor Winship is now receiving many affidavits of mortgage indebtedness. In the past few years many have not taken advantage of the law. This spring, however, conditions are different. Many will take advantage of the law as an economical measure. Already a large number have taken advantage of the law and many more are expected to do so before the time limit expires.

While the law has been in force for several years, yet there are many people who are not aware of the fact that they are entitled to an exemption from the payment of taxes to a certain extent. A few days ago a certain woman filed an affidavit for exemption for the first time, although she has been entitled to exemption for a part of the taxes for five years.

Many others have the mistaken idea that if they file an affidavit once they do not have to file any more, but in order to get the benefit of the law, affidavit must be filed every year.

CHAPTER XV.

TEN o'clock that night found Kinross in the haunted bedchamber. He had come to the room without further permission from Mrs. Morningstar than the reluctant half consent he had extracted from her at noon. The subject had not been broached between them again, so he had taken the law into his own hands, and soon after the family retired he carried his kerosene lamp down the long corridor which cut off the haunted part from the rest of the house and reached the fatal room.

He was relieved to find that the door was not locked. Once across the threshold he did not even glance about him until he had carefully closed the door behind him. Then, turning, he raised high his lamp.

The ghost herself, if she appeared in the course of his vigil, would not give him a greater shock of surprise than he received as his eye fell upon the opposite wall of the room. The last thing he would have expected to find in the vicinity of the Morningstar farm confronted him—a bookcase filled with books, a little library of classics, for even across the width of the room he could read the gilt lettered names, Shakespeare, Milton, Spenser, Eliot, Browning and the rest.

The rest of the room—a bedchamber furnished in handsome old mahogany—was not in any way noteworthy save that there was something in its general aspect which seemed to give evidence of a higher grade of people than the Morningstars. There was nothing sufficiently gruesome about it, at least in the matter of its appointments, to suggest either a murder or a ghost. True, he felt an atmosphere of uncanniness about the place hard to account for except on the theory that his imagination, filled with the account of the deed of horror these walls had witnessed, colored the room with all the somberness of the tale.

He walked across the floor and, placing his lamp on the top of a low shelf, plunged into an examination of the bookshelves.

There were the novels of Scott, Dumas, Dickens, Thackeray, George Eliot and Charlotte Bronte, the tales of Poe, Macaulay's "England," Gibbon's "Rome," Carlyle's "French Revolution," the plays of Shakespeare, many of the modern English and American poets, the works of Spenser, Milton and Pope, the "Canterbury Tales" and Johnson's "Lives of the British Poets."

Taking down a volume at random, he had a vague instinctive surprise at finding no dust on it. The fact had no definite significance at the moment, but later, in the light of other developments, he recalled the circumstance.

He had soon made a mental inventory of the lower shelves. The books were in good condition, though they showed signs of having been handled considerably.

"The parents of Eunice were at least not illiterate," he concluded.

He now turned his attention to the topmost row of books, which was out of his reach. It consisted of a set of Balzac. He mounted a chair and, taking down a volume, was a little surprised to find that it was a French edition. The book was thick with dust, and its removal from the shelf had sent a little cloud of dust into his eyes. He had a passing wonder in the fact that the top shelf alone was dusty.

"Perhaps the ghost can't read French, but enjoys the English classics,"

He turned the pages of the Balzac. It, too, however, showed signs of having been read, for it bore several marked passages.

Suddenly as he turned a leaf his eye fell upon, not a printed page, but a sheet of letter paper, yellow with age, closely covered with a feminine handwriting. He turned toward his lamp and read:

A CONFESSION.

I, Beatrice Daniels, make the following confession in the face of imminent death, being unable longer to live and bear the burden of my crime. My husband threatened to murder me if I confess our crime, and I myself would choose death at my own hands rather than languish in a prison, which is the fate my confession would bring upon me if I lived to face it. Therefore when this paper is found and read I shall be dead, either having taken my own life or having been murdered.

The child, Eunice—
Kinross started as at this instant his ear was suddenly caught by a faint sound in the corridor without—the sound, he thought, of an approaching light step. In a moment he had blown out his light and stepped down from his chair, folding and thrusting the paper into his pocket as he did so. One quick glance about him, and he slipped behind the high headboard of the old fashioned bed. There he waited motionless for the appearing of the spirit or whatever it was that was coming, for the sound of approaching steps on the bare wooden floor of the hall was now quite unmistakable. It was not mice either. Of that he was sure as with tense expectation he waited and listened. So there was actually some foundation for this story of the ghost? Nonsense! Old Morningstar was coming to warn him away from the room perhaps. No; the step was too light for this. Who or what would he see? Would it come into this room? If it did not he would examine the hall.

He heard the latch of the door move and the door open and close very softly. The room was in absolute darkness, so of course he could see nothing. The light step came across the room to the front of the bed, and then suddenly a match was struck (he had a hasty doubt as to whether ghosts ever found it necessary to use matches), and a faint light spread through the room.

A silence followed. There was no further movement or sound of any sort. He waited for what seemed to him a long time. At last he stooped and peeped through a crack in the headboard. His eyes were caught by the light of a candle burning on the wide top of the footboard. And seated Turk fashion on the bed, her cheeks planted on her palms, her elbows on an open volume on her lap, was a feminine figure clad in a blue calico wrapper, with two thick braids of beautiful fair hair hanging over her shoulders. Eunice! For a moment he was bewildered. Questions and suppositions fairly jumped over each other in his brain. Whether she had learned of his coming to this room and had followed him thither, why she was not fearful of the place, whether she was walking in her sleep, whether she was Eunice or the specter of Eunice's mother—

But gradually as with strained muscles he continued to stoop and gaze at her his confusion cleared to some definite impressions. She was sitting there reading as composedly and quietly as though she were not more at home anywhere in the house than here in this room. She did not appear like one who had come for the first time into a haunted bedchamber. And there was an indefinable something in her way of turning the page of a book which suggested in some subtle way that she was used to handling books and accustomed to reading much.

There was something in the girl's aspect, in her unconsciousness of an observer, in her relaxed and girlish form, in the childlike innocence and sweetness of her face, that thrilled

Seated Turk fashion on the bed.

Kinross with a sudden sense of a unique loveliness. His nerves tingled as he realized his isolation here tonight with this exquisite young creature.

He carefully raised himself from his stooping position and leaned against the wall. How was he to reveal himself without too greatly startling her? The shock or fright of suddenly beholding a man in the room when she supposed herself alone—at the hour of midnight, too—might actually injure her. Yet he must not any longer leave her unaware of his presence.

The problem solved itself by his accidentally touching the headboard at this moment with his elbow. Instantly he thought to reassure her by quietly speaking her name without abruptness.

"Eunice, it is only I. Don't be alarmed."

He stepped out into sight as he spoke. She had sprung to her feet and stood panting with alarm, her eyes wide and startled, her cheeks white.

He spoke again in a matter of fact way, calculated to disarm her fear. "I'm very sorry I've frightened you. I came here to meet the ghost. Are you it?" he smiled.

She sank limply against the bed.

thought," she breathed, "that you were it."

At the sound of her own voice she seemed to recover herself. Her face was bright with color now, and her eyes were brilliant. He saw almost with amusement that she found no cause for alarm or displeasure at his presence.

He drew an old dusty chair to the bedside and sat down before her, folding his arms.

She leaned comfortably against the foot of the bed. Evidently she saw no objection to a midnight chat with him. She seemed to him in her innocent acceptance of the situation as ignorant of evil as an angel.

There seemed so much that he wanted to ask her that he hardly knew where to begin. But with a rife less than her usual timidity before him she took the initiative.

"You were in this room when I came in, weren't you?" she asked, her eyes wide with wonder.

"Yes—in quest of the ghost."

"But the room was dark."

He pointed to his lamp on the bookshelf. "I blew it out when I heard you coming, thinking I was going to encounter the specter."

"You didn't know, did you, that you would—would find me here tonight?" Again that note of wistfulness with which he was beginning to grow familiar.

"No more expected it than I expected to meet the czar of Russia."

She appeared so disappointed to hear that he hastened to add, "It's the most delightful surprise I ever had in my life."

She beamed upon him frankly. "You are pleased?" Evidently she wanted him to repeat it.

"To say I am 'pleased' would be false. I am overjoyed."

"Why?"

A DRAMATIC SCENE

Australians Give Vent to Their Joy at the Coming Visit of Our Big Fleet.

AUDIENCE ROSE ENMASSE

People of Sydney Display Unmistakably Their Pleasure at Navy Department's Announcement.

America the Nearest Caucasian Neighbor and Friend the Island Commonwealth Has.

Sydney, March 16.—There was a dramatic scene Sunday at a great gathering of citizens, when at the conclusion of an address on the subject of national defense, Premier Alfred Deakin read a cablegram announcing that the American fleet of battleships would visit Sydney and Melbourne. He called for three cheers for the United States and the audience rose enmasse and responded with deafening hurrahs. The prime minister said that he was sure that such a welcome as an American fleet had never known outside of its own country would be accorded it by Australia, and the cheering that followed this statement seemed evidence of the fact that the Australians have a feeling stronger than mere friendship for the American people and their navy.

Premier Deakin in his speech advocated greater expenditures for national defense. He said that the burden imposed upon the people of Great Britain for the maintenance of their naval and military forces was beginning to tell and that wealthy Australians could not expect to enjoy the privileges of the protection against invasion without bearing their share of the cost. The expenditure recommended is $9,000,000 annually for an army of 20,000 men and fifteen coast-defense vessels.

MELBOURNE DELIGHTED

All Classes Hail With Pleasure the Coming of the Fleet.

Melbourne, March 16.—The Australian commonwealth, officially and generally, hails with pleasure the announcement from Washington that the American battleship fleet will visit the antipodes next July or August. There are several reasons for this feeling of satisfaction. Premier Alfred Deakin was not flattering the American people in the communication he addressed to their government through Consul General John P. Bray here last December, to have the warships to come to this quarter of the globe. In his invitation he said:

"No other federation in the world possesses so many features of likeness to that of the United States as does the commonwealth of Australia, and I doubt whether any two peoples could be found who are in nearer touch with each other and are likely to benefit more by anything that tends to knit their relations more closely."

Australians of all classes, indeed, have decided liking and admiration for Americans, due to sentimental, commercial and even political causes. In the first place, as Australasian newspapers and orators not infrequently observe whenever the question of Asiatic immigration to Australia comes up or that of Australasian national defense, America is the nearest Caucasian neighbor and friend that the commonwealth has. This fact is given added strength because, speaking broadly, Australians are almost superstitious over Asiatic proximity, prestige and influence; and, whether there is ground for such feeling or not, they are apprehensively mindful of their great physical separation from any cognate people. This feeling, it may be added, is fostered by leading politicians, especially those in the powerful labor party, and it includes the Japanese, although regardless of the Anglo-British alliance.

This distrustful attitude toward things Asiatic and the strong leaning toward things American has a corollary in Australian jealousy of European colonization in the south Pacific. Whereas the commonwealth has always been complaisant over America's possession of Pago Pago, Samoa—which the fleet will visit—it has never been overly pleased at Germany's possession of Apia; and the commonwealth manifested so much feeling over territorial rights in the New Hebrides and trading privileges in the Marshall Islands that the imperial government was forced to treat with France and Germany respectively regarding these disputes.

In brief the United States is the only foreign power with territory in the Pacific for which Australia has a distinct liking. But there are other considerations than these. Aside from the cardinal one, that the commonwealth's whole scheme of government is patterned after that of the United States, there are strong commercial and other ties. Australian coal is shipped in large quantities to the Pacific coast and Australian meat goes to the Philippines. Australia's irrigation experts study the immense schemes for watering the arid tracts in the American Western states and Australian students and educators go to America to learn American methods and systems. Mr. Deakin himself is

AN UNFAILING OPTIMIST

This Is What Made Dr. Good So Strong in the Eleventh District.

Indianapolis, March 15.—Dr. Charles H. Good of Huntington has entered the Eleventh district congressional race with good feeling manifested toward him by the other candidates and their followers, notwithstanding the bruising contest and spectacular convention of 609 ballots. Dr. Good has been a strong factor in the district for many years. He is an unfailing optimist and has taken his defeats with such good nature that his victory is said to be a popular one in every county he will represent during the canvass. His nomination was due almost entirely to his personal popularity with the masses of the party, as it is said that he did not have a strong organization in any county except his own, where he was permitted to name his delegates. Good's chief backers were Silas Pulse and Adam Foust of Warren, who have been working for fifteen years to land the nomination for him. They have kept out of the limelight, so far as state politics is concerned, and are not identified with either of the factions that have done so much to keep the Eleventh district in constant turmoil. Their joy over the nomination of Good could not be expressed, and they are setting on foot plans to obtain for him election at the polls. It is admitted, however, that he has a strenuous road ahead, but he is regarded as an untiring worker and a capable organizer. Throughout the district the feeling exists that he is entitled to the nomination, as he has sought it until some politicians refused to take his candidacy seriously. His friends are now asserting that he is 3,000 votes stronger than any other Republican in the district and that he will defeat Congressman Rauch, who will be renominated by the Democrats. Good's followers are planning a demonstration in his behalf at Huntington Tuesday night. It will be a district affair.

Interest is developing in contests for places on the Democratic ticket. In addition to the several well-known candidates seeking to head the ticket, William P. O'Neill of Mishawaka is determined to have the nomination for lieutenant governor. He has defeated Frank Herring of South Bend for the St. Joseph county delegation. Herring will have to get his support from other parts of the Thirtieth district. Frank Hall of Rushville is also an active candidate for lieutenant governor. Judge Jabez Cox of Peru, ex-Judge M. B. Lalry of Logansport, and ex-Judge Timothy E. Howard of South Bend are asking for the nomination for judge of the supreme court. There is a fight between Walter J. Lotz of Muncie, and Richard Milburn of Jasper for attorney general. Burt New of North Vernon has no opposition for reporter of the supreme and appellate courts. James F. Cox of Columbus probably will be renominated for secretary of state, and Marion Bailey of Hendricks county for auditor of state. John Isenbarger of North Manchester is the only candidate for state treasurer. Judge Felt of Greenfield has the call for the nomination for judge of the appellate court.

George W. Cromer of Muncie remains silent as to his political plans, but it is believed that he will accept the Republican nomination for congress in the Eighth district March 25. A Muncie newspaper that is friendly to him says that Cromer is being urged by Republicans in every county to make the race. Madison county will send a delegation to the convention favorable to Albert Vestal of Anderson. Jay county has a candidate in Senator Nathan Hawkins of Portland. Theodore Shockney of Union City has the endorsement of Randolph county. Adams and Wells counties are without candidates, and are friendly to Cromer. The latter is strong in Jay and Madison and can have the nomination by saying that he will accept it. In spite of the bitter feud waged against him two years ago, Cromer is said to be again very strong with his party. Whether or not he will be the controlling figure at the convention and will be able to say who shall make the race.

Will H. Hays of Sullivan has been reappointed chairman of the speakers' bureau of the Republican state committee. Hays informed the committee that he would take charge of the bureau. In the campaign of two years ago he rendered the committee invaluable service as the head of the speakers' bureau. He wound up a season of good work by arranging the schedule for the special Fairbanks train that made a tour of the state toward the close of the campaign. During the Republican state convention Hays will have a desk at state committee headquarters and will be glad to talk with county chairmen as to their preferences as to speakers this fall. About the first of July Hays will open his permanent headquarters in the committee rooms.

The Republicans of the First district will hold their congressional convention at Princeton, Thursday. There is no open opposition to the renomination of Congressman Foster of Evansville.

Prefers Prison to Farm.

GET RICH QUICK.

Schemes of this class have again come to grief along with the gullible investors, causing serious loss to innocent business concerns, as is always the case of panics in Wall St.

While this last lesson is yet fresh in mind, it is an opportune moment to consider causes and means to avoid like trouble in the future.

Direct your attention to that greatest of all Newspapers the Cincinnati Enquirer. From its columns one can readily detect the trend of currency, its lodging places, by whom handled, uses made of it, and final results.

Again you read quotations of Bonds, Stocks, and Securities of every nature, fixing Status of all business from the retailer, to United States Government.

Also Current News, facts and reliable data covering the entire world; all sufficiently explicit to enable thinking people to avoid snags and follow the channel of success.

Its extra size and high price, is the secret of its ability to discover, obtain, print and serve its patrons with all the news, and cater to wants of people in every calling of life.

The Weekly Enquirer for the year 1908 has greatly increased its Clubbing offers which now include the most select and popular publications of the day at prices slightly over half the regular Subscription rates.

Do not overlook the fact that the year 1908 promises to excel in prosperity, any of the past, and that the Enquirer printed at Cincinnati, Ohio, is one of the most reliable sources of information.

ENEMY OF BAD MEN

Exploits of Pat Garrett, Slayer of "Billy the Kid."

SKILLED REVOLVER SHOT.

How Hunter of Notorious Outlaws, Who Recently Died With His Boots on, Disposed of a Horse Thief—Way "the Kid" Was Killed.

Patrick F. Garrett, the former sheriff of Dona Ana county, in Texas, who was recently shot and killed by J. Wayne Brazle, a youthful ranchman, one of his tenants, near Las Cruces, N. M., in a dispute over a ranch lease, won popular fame in 1889 when he put to an end the bloody career of "Billy the Kid," the twenty-one-year-old bandit, who had killed twenty-one men "just to see them kick." For two years or more "the Kid" had been the terror of New Mexico with his thieving, marauding and his frequently recurring man killings. He had met all comers, and they were easy, but he hadn't met Pat Garrett. When he did, he erred.

Garrett had first come into notice as a foe of "bad men" in New Mexico about two years before he finally hunted down and killed the notorious "Kid," and he was anything except a green man at the game of fighting desperate criminals when the climax of his career came. Along about 1878, when Garrett was first made sheriff of Lincoln county, largely through the influence of General Lew Wallace, then governor of New Mexico, no one knew much about the young officer or of his mode of handling a gun, says the Kansas City Star. One day a friendly desperado, attracted by Garrett's innocent appearance, took him aside for a bit of counsel and advised him to go back to Texas, where there were lucid intervals of peace sometimes.

"This country is too warm for the like of you," urged the desperado, "and you'll not last through the summer."

"Thanks," drawled Pat Garrett, "I can stand considerable heat, and I guess I'll stay."

It was said of Garrett that he could pull and shoot in about the time it takes a fly to get from under the hand that tries to catch it, and it seems to have been literally true.

Garrett gave the first demonstration of his skill with the revolver for the benefit of a western gentleman indulging in a little western saloon merriment. The gentleman, one Greenfield, with a weakness for other men's horses, was amusing himself in a saloon making a couple of men dance by shooting at their feet. A third, whose terpsichorean skill or bashfulness had met the disapproval of the horse thief, lay on the floor with a bullet inconveniently concealed in his person when Pat Garrett casually dropped in.

"Three hands around!" whooped the horse thief, shifting his pistol toward Garrett, and almost on the last word he lunged forward on his face with a bullet through his heart. The last sound he heard in this world was Garrett's drawing comment: "You're a poor caller."

Garrett had a number of other adventures before he finally came to the point in his life where "Billy the Kid" demanded his attention. But that time finally came. The bandit had just been out on one of his usual forays, which terminated in a saloon brawl and the ruthless killing of a man. It was the outlaw's twenty-first victim and his last.

When Garrett set out for "the Kid" he departed on no ordinary mission even for a man used to the capture and killing of border outlaws. The bandit was a wild and lawless youth, cunning, brave and dashing and as clever and fast with a gun as any man that ever trod the west, even though he was only a boy in years. Billy was both unscrupulous and cunning, albeit not without a leaven of chivalry and romance. His adventures had been numerous, and he was New Mexico's desperado hero, but Garrett didn't mind.

When the plucky sheriff overtook the bandit, "the Kid" took a look at his opponent, whom he knew immediately by repute, and decided that it was better to give up. He was tried and convicted of murder and sentenced to death. But the bandit was destined to die in another fashion than on the scaffold. Two careless deputies were outwitted, and he escaped.

A less experienced man would have gone out in pursuit while the trail was hot. Not so Garrett, who knew the ways of the desperate and wily outlaw. Instead he set out for the Maxwell ranch, near Carlizoo, in Lincoln county, where "the Kid's" sweetheart lived. Garrett and his men lay in wait until they saw a man dodge into the house under cover of the night. Garrett single handed slipped in after him and posted his men on the porch. Garrett knew Maxwell and walked to his room to ask whether the bandit had come in. Maxwell was asleep and had to be awakened. He knew nothing of "the Kid" and wasn't expecting him, but Garrett was pretty certain and on guard. He had just turned from Maxwell's bed in the darkness when "the Kid" entered the room. There was a tense moment. The bandit advanced to the bed, believing to speak to Maxwell.

"Who are they?" he asked, noticing the men on the porch.

In an instant he knew that Maxwell was not alone. The boy bandit made a quick, catlike move backward and whipped out his gun with incredible swiftness, but he was yet too slow. A bullet from Garrett's gun made him a bandit no longer. Garrett filled his own prophecy that he would die with his boots on.

IN DANGEROUS COUNTRY

Two Traveling Men Unconsciously Get Between Firing Lines in Kentucky.

Dixon, Ky., March 16.—The fatal wounding of Deputy Marshal Smith Childers by Jake McDowell at Providence, Ky., Saturday evening, almost precipitated a race war and was the indirect cause of two traveling men being shot. W. H. Carter, a traveling man of Chattanooga was dangerously and perhaps fatally wounded and J. B. Barry, another commercial traveler, was painfully wounded. The two men were shot from ambush by negroes while driving between Dixon and Providence in company with two other drummers. The negroes who did the shooting evidently labored under the impression that the quartet were part of a mob pursuing McDowell.

Deputy Marshal Childers was shot while attempting to arrest McDowell. The negro was immediately taken into custody and hurried to Dixon for safekeeping. A mob of whites immediately began forming and negroes in the vicinity of Providence, hearing of this, also armed themselves and lay in wait by the road over which the mob was expected to pass. They mistook the traveling men for the advance guard of the mob, and after firing on them, made their escape. McDowell after being brought to Dixon, was hurried on to Henderson. The mob in pursuit arrived at the Dixon jail at 2 o'clock in the morning and, finding there was no chance of getting McDowell, immediately set out to beat the country with bloodhounds for the negroes who had fired on the traveling men. Thus far no trace of the culprits has been found. Carter was taken to a hospital at Evansville, Ind.

Firm Resolution.

Dave Saddler was a brave Confederate soldier who was in the hospital at Richmond and who, in spite of his sufferings, always took a cheerful view of the situation. One day when he was recovering a visiting minister approached his cot and tendered him a pair of homemade socks.

"Accept these," said he. "I only wish the dear woman who knit them could present them to you in person."

"Thank you very much," said David gravely. "But I have decided that I never shall wear another pair of socks while I live."

The preacher protested, but to no purpose, and finally he sought out the boy's sister to tell her how foolishly the invalid had behaved.

"Why," exclaimed she, "both his feet have been shot off!"

The Scent of Flowers.

As a rule the scent of flowers does not exist in them as in a store or gland, but rather as a breath, an exhalation. While the flower lives it breathes out its sweetness, but when it dies the fragrance usually ceases to exist. The method of stealing from the flower its fragrance while it is still living is no new thing, and it is not known when it was discovered that butter, animal fat or oil would absorb the odor given off by living flowers placed near them and would themselves become fragrant.

How to Make Home Happy.

A Thackeray Retort.

Being asked once whether he had read any of the books of a popular novelist, Thackeray rejoined: "Well, no. You see, I am like a pastry cook. I bake tarts and I sell 'em, but I eat bread and butter."

The best remedy for wrongs done us is to forget them.—Sydney.

CAMPAIGN YEAR

AND

THE YEAR 1908 WILL MAKE GREAT HISTORY

Probably no year since the Civil War has as great influence upon the United States as the coming year. The Presidential contest, both for nomination and election, involves much more than mere party rivalry. It involves the approval or rejection of the great economic reforms which mark the beginning of a new epoch in American history. It is a fight affecting every man, woman and child, and upon which the interest of the whole world is focused.

DON'T GET YOUR EYE

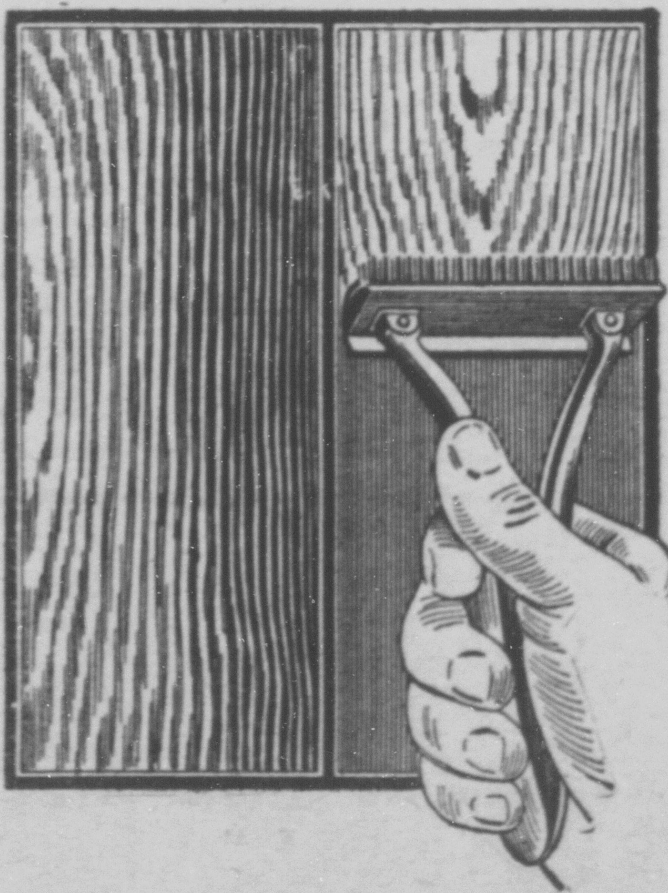

So near a quarter that you can't see a dollar behind it. A few more cents added to the cost of an article in the beginning may make you a dollar in the end.

You can't buy something for nothing. A good shoe may cost you a little more than a poor one, but it will be money well spent for it will be cheaper in the end.

Our policy is to sell a GOOD SHOE or SELL NONE.
